

Course Guide Start from here

① Nonoichi Chuo Bus Stop

Look for the camellia monument. It was selected for the Ishikawa Hyakumangoku Cultural Festival "100 Artworks I found"

② Nonoichi Kodaimae Sta.

The stone monument marks the historical site of the mansion of the Togashi Clan, who used to rule the Kaga Province.

③ Nunoichi Shrine

Dedicated to Sugawara no Michizane, also known as the "god of learning", this shrine is believed to be established by the Togashi Clan of the Kaga Province. The stone monument called "Benkei's power stone" still remains today. The magnificent ginkgo tree that towers over the precincts of the shrine is estimated to be 500 years old.

④ Kita Family House (Designated National Important Cultural Property)

A refined wooden structure that retains the architectural beauty of traditional Japanese house from the Edo period. It was also a sake brewery that produced various kinds of renowned sake such as "Shojo" for over 100 years. Enjoy the view of an open tatami room with a beautifully patterned hearth and an elegant garden.

Reasons to visit Nonoichi “Hokkoku Kaido”

If you love sake... come taste the local sake “Shojyo”

Once a renowned sake produced at Kita Family House half a century ago, Shojyo has been revived using the surviving yeast from the house, as well as “gohyakumangoku” rice from Nonoichi’s rice fields and subterranean water from the foot of Mt.Hakusan. The sweet, yet refreshing taste is perfect for any dish. Please have a taste at the café in Local Museum Nono.
For purchase, please visit the Local Museum NoNo or the Tourism and Local Products Association (Camino).

If you need good luck... pray for success at Nunoichi Shrine

If you need good luck for passing difficult exams, visit Nunoichi Shrine dedicated to the “god of learning”. You can also buy “Monaka Kanjincho”, a souvenir sweet named after a Kabuki play about Benkei’s passing through the barrier at Ataka.

📖 Course Guide : ②,⑤

If you love photography... wander along the beautiful streets

Nonoichi prospered as the first lodging town on the Hokkoku Kaido highway that connected Kanazawa to Kyoto. Many of the buildings along Honmachi Dori still retain the vestiges of ancient times.
